EVERY CHILD A TALKER – A Unique Child

Use this chart to help you evaluate how your setting supports the unique speech, language and communication skills of every child. Think about all the children in your key group and the ways in which they express themselves or communicate. Tick the box that matches best the way the child communicates. Which children do you think you are supporting well in their speech and language development? Which children are making good progress? Underline their names in red. Which children need more support than is currently provided? Underline their names in blue.

Child's Name	Early communicator	Attentive communicator	Developing communicator	Questioning communicator	Skilled communicator	English as an addition language	Reluctant communicator
