Gloucestershire newspapers

Introduction

This list, though not exhaustive, indicates the range of newspapers available for research from 1722 onwards, including the major national newspapers.

Where possible entries for newspapers try to give a flavour of the publication, giving place of publication/circulation, first and last dates of issue, frequency of publication and political leaning. Unless otherwise stated the extracts describing local newspapers are based on Mitchell's Press Directories 1860-1930. These descriptions were written by the publishers themselves.

It is advisable for researchers to check the exact holdings and availability of individual libraries' newspapers as these factors do alter from time to time.

It may be necessary for customers to book microfilm readers, or order volumes from storage in advance

Please note, staff around the county should inform the Gloucestershire Archives of any changes, additions, amendments etc needed to this list as they occur.

Please note that the Gloucestershire Collection moved from Gloucester Library to Gloucestershire Archives in December 2005.

GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE (m) 1731-1914

This can be a useful source of information on people, eg births, marriages, obituaries, appointments and promotions, civil, naval and military etc. In the eighteenth century, the GM list became bankrupt. After 1867 the magazine was 'modernised' and the number of personal notices declined. Also notable are the reports of parliamentary debates during the period up to 1771 when such reporting was banned!(1) These reports from 'Lilliput' are compositions by Dr Johnson not verbatim transcripts, and should be therefore treated with some caution.

Bath

BATH AND CHELTENHAM GAZETTE 1812-1844

Established 7 October 1812 (w) Liberal (moderate)

1864 “Circulates in Bath and Cheltenham and throughout the manufacturing and agricultural towns of Bradford, Trowbridge, Warminster, Westbury, Frome, Devises, Melksham, Chippenham, Tetbury, Cirencester, Shepton Mallet, Gladstonbury and Wells; thus presenting to solicitors, auctioneers and the public generally one of the most effective mediums for advertising in the West of England.

Advocates the interest of no party, but simply contends for the maintenance in its integrity of the British Protestant constitution in church and state, as by law established. It gives a careful digest of the general news, notices every event having interest in the religious world, excludes to the utmost whatever may minister to a morbid or prurient curiosity, and is the organ in Bath of the Church of England, but at the same time chronicles events which may interest non-conformists”.

1900 - “It records all the news of the district, where it enjoys a large circulation”.

Today published as “The Gazette”

Bristol

BRISTOL MERCURY 1790-1909

Established March 1790 (w) Liberal

1864 - “Circulates extensively throughout the counties of Gloucester, Wilts, Somerset, Dorset, Devon, Cornwall, Monmouth and South Wales generally.

Advocates the interest of agriculture, commerce and manufacturers, and has long occupied an influential position amongst the provincial press. A determined supporter of Liberal and progressive measures, it treats the questions of the day in a fearless and impartial spirit, and at the same time shows that no care is spared to ensure completeness in all the departments relating to agriculture, commerce and manufacturers, as well as securing an ample digest of all the intelligence of the week. It is especially a commercial and family newspaper, includes reviews of literature etc. All objectionable announcements are excluded.”

Last published 30 November 1909

HISTORY: Bristol Mercury Centenary 1 March 1890 - available at GLOUCESTERSHIRE ARCHIVES, document number OV12.1GS

BRISTOL TIMES & FELIX FARLEY'S BRISTOL JOURNAL

Felix Farley's Journal established 1735

Bristol Times established 2 March 1839 (w) Conservative

1864 - "Circulates through the counties of Gloucester, Somerset, Wilts, Monmouthshire and South Wales: in Bristol, Bath, Wells, Frome, Taunton, Bridgewater, Gloucester, Cheltenham, Stroud and the towns and villages in a large surrounding circle, being certainly entitled to rank in the first class of provincial journals.

Advocates in a broad and liberal spirit the interests of commerce, manufactures, agriculture, education and mental progress. It is an excellent political, literary and family journal: attached to the Church of England and to the cause of true liberty, civil and religious: thus securing all classes as readers".

WESTERN DAILY PRESS 1858 - to date

Established 1858 (d) Liberal - Independent

1864- "Circulates in Bristol, Clifton, Bath, Gloucester, Taunton, Wells, Swansea, Cardiff, Newport, Merthyr, Trowbridge, Stroud the Western counties and South Wales

Advocates measures calculated to promote the local and political interests of the city and neighbourhood. General, political and social questions are fully and freely discussed and it devotes considerable attention to literary criticism. The local and district news is very fully and impartially reported. The London and foreign news, obtained by telegraph, appears as early as in the London papers.

1900- Circulation now includes Forest of Dean ... generally represents the commercial and agricultural life of the Western counties of England"

CHELTENHAM CHRONICLE 1809 -1983

Established 1809 (w) Conservative

1860- “Circulates in Cheltenham, Gloucester, Tewkesbury, Winchcombe, Stroud and generally through Glos, Wilts and Somerset.

Advocates the general interest of the county, giving preference to all interesting local questions and intelligence: is a literary journal, and its character that of a comprehensive family newspaper, patronised by the wealthy families of the town and district.

1900- Circulates throughout Glos.

Whilst giving prominence to the local news of the town and district, the chronicle also supplies a complete summary of the week’s general news, including the latest in all departments by telegraph.

1929- Cheltenham Chronicle and Gloucestershire Graphic from 12 January 1901. (Incorporates the Cheltenham Looker-On)

Circulates throughout Glos, and gives 8 pages of illustrations in an art supplement in addition to 16 pages of news. The Chronicle is the only newspaper in the town.”

GLOUCESTER JOURNAL 1722 to 1992

Established 9 April 1722 (w) Liberal

1864 - “Circulates through the entire county of Gloucester, and also in the counties of Worcester, Hereford, Monmouth, Oxford, Somerset etc

Advocates no particular interest, but supports those measures which are conducive to the welfare of all; it takes a general and liberal view of the politics and literature of the day, and is attached to the Church of England, though freely open to the communications of other religious communities upon popular questions.

1900- Circulates extensively in the City and throughout the entire county of Gloucester, also in the adjoining counties of Worcester, Monmouth, Hereford, Oxford and Wilts.

The oldest County newspaper and is the recognised Liberal organ for the county and city; advocates progressive legislation with a vigour free from personal rancour; displays special ability in dealing with agricultural, commercial, local and social topics; gives a careful summary of home and foreign news; is particularly complete and accurate in its reporting; successfully aims at being a high class family paper; and publishes the latest market and other intelligence by telegraph”
