

Gloucestershire Safeguarding Adults – When to Raise a Safeguarding Concern

Decision-making Support Tool

Adult Safeguarding is for people who, because of issues such as dementia, learning disability, mental ill-health or substance abuse, have care and support needs that may make them unable to protect themselves from abuse or neglect.

Under the Care Act 2014 the local authority (Gloucestershire County Council) has a duty make enquiries, or request others to make them, when they think an adult with care and support needs may be at risk of abuse or neglect and they need to find out what action may be needed to safeguard the person.

The adult safeguarding duties under the Care Act 2014 apply to any adult, aged 18 or over, who:

- has needs for care and support¹ (whether or not the local authority is meeting any of those needs) and
- is experiencing, or at risk of, abuse or neglect; and
- as a result of those care and support needs is unable to protect themselves from either the risk of, or the experience of abuse or neglect.

Care & support needs are defined in the Care and Support (Eligibility Criteria) Regulations 2015 in terms of specified outcomes. The person may be regarded as having care and support needs if they are unable to achieve the outcome without assistance; doing so causes the adult significant pain, distress or anxiety; doing so would place them at significant risk; or, achieving the outcome without assistance would take significantly longer than would normally be expected.

The person does not need to be in receipt of a service, it is sufficient that there is a reasonable belief that person is unable to achieve one or more of the specified outcomes and that as a result they unable to protect themselves from either the risk of, or the experience of abuse or neglect.

The specified outcomes are—

- managing and maintaining nutrition;
- maintaining personal hygiene;
- managing toilet needs;
- being appropriately clothed;
- being able to make use of the adult's home safely;
- maintaining a habitable home environment;
- developing and maintaining family or other personal relationships;
- accessing and engaging in work, training, education or volunteering;
- making use of necessary facilities or services in the local community including public transport, and recreational facilities or services.

¹ In some instances, the local authority may decide to initiate a safeguarding enquiry, called a non-statutory enquiry, where the person does not have care and support needs but may still be at risk of abuse or neglect and to whom the local authority has a 'wellbeing' duty under Section 1 of the Care Act 2014 e.g. carers and care leavers. The wellbeing principle begins with assumption that the person is best placed to judge their own Wellbeing and consent is therefore usually required.

- carrying out any caring responsibilities the adult has for a child.

Your responsibilities as referrer

Before making an adult safeguarding referral:

- Where possible discuss your concerns with the person, their advocate or representative, and try to find out what their views and wishes are. While the person's consent, where they are able to give it, is preferable it is not essential.
- Take any actions you can within the boundaries of your role, to prevent harm/further harm occurring. It is not sufficient just to make a safeguarding referral.
- Consider whether a safeguarding referral is a proportionate response to the concern. What other options may be available? What is the nature and level of harm, e.g. would an assessment of their needs be more proportionate at this stage?
- Ensure that the organisations/agencies with immediate responsibility for ensuring the safety of the person have been notified.
- Ensure you have clearly documented what you have observed/heard as it may be required at a later date.

When making an adult safeguarding referral please use plain English to describe:

- What has happened, when and to whom.
- The nature of harm, or risk of harm, that the person has experienced or is at risk of experiencing.
- How this has affected the person.
- Why you believe the person has care & support needs (see above).
- Why you believe that the person is unable to protect themselves from either the risk of, or the experience of abuse or neglect.
- What the person has said and what they want to happen; their views and wishes.

Incidents involving another person with care & support needs

Services often have to manage disagreements or altercations between people they support. This could be the result of tensions between people living in close proximity and may also be caused or exacerbated by misunderstandings due to dementia, learning disability, or mental health problems. However, some instances of abuse between people may be due to poor relationships with, and poor management of challenging behaviours by staff or the service..
