

Transitions in education for vulnerable young people – KS2 – KS3

01.05.2025 3.30PM - 5pm

The whole of childhood is a preparation for adult life. In all our lives, things change and that is inevitable. These transitions change us.

Resilient children grow stronger through every transition in life. However, vulnerable children and young people can find transitions painful; even traumatic. This session provides learners with understanding and tools to enable children and young people to build resilience and make successful transitions. The course will look at the barriers our young people face at the beginning of their primary journey and then onto transition into secondary education. We will look at the impact COVID has had on our young people at each Key Stage and how can we best support young people as they face the many transitions expected of them.
